DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 57-60, 66, and 68-69 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bonaldo (5,306,243). Bonaldo discloses a medical connector comprising a valve comprising an opening adapted to receive a first fluid source and a wall structure defining an internal cavity, the cavity comprising a neck portion in fluid communication with the opening and a main portion with a larger internal diameter than the neck portion, and a flexible element positioned in the cavity, the flexible element movable between a first position in which the flexible element obstructs fluid flow through the valve and a second position in which fluid flow is permitted through the valve, the flexible element comprising a proximal end, a distal end, and a flexible wall with an inner surface and an outer surface, the flexible element in the first position comprising a first external diameter near the opening, a second external diameter in the neck portion and a third external diameter in the main portion, the second external diameter being smaller than the first external diameter and the third external diameter, and at least a portion of the outer surface of the wall of the flexible element between the first external diameter and the second external diameter being tapered, the flexible element in the first position further comprising a first internal diameter in the main portion, a second internal diameter in the main portion distal the first internal diameter, and a third internal diameter in the main portion distal the second internal diameter, the second internal diameter in the main portion being smaller than the first and third internal diameters in the main portion, a tubular main body in fluid communication with the valve, and a tubular branch adapted to receive a second fluid source and adapted to direct fluid from the second fluid source to the tubular main body. The examiner has reproduced Figures 2 and 4 for illustration.

In regards to claims 58-60, 66, and 68-69, Bonaldo further discloses a rigid, spike member (34) located within the flexible element, wherein the rigid member and the tubular branch (11) are integrally formed (product-by-process claim), wherein the rigid member assists in supporting the element, wherein the flexible element bears against the wall structure near the opening, and wherein the tubular main body (12) and the tubular branch (11) form an acute angle.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.

Art Unit: 3763

3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 61-65 and 67 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bonaldo (5,306,243). Bonaldo discloses the claimed invention except for the use of transparent material. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use transparent material, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 227 F.2d 197, 125 USPQ 416 (CCPA 1960).

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 57-69 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-10 of U.S. Patent No. 6,758,833. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims recite the same patentable subject matter.

Claims 57-69 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-7 of U.S. Patent No. 6,669,673. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims recite the same patentable subject matter.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 2/11/2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The terminal disclaimer was not approved because it listed patents and applications that are not subject to a double patenting rejection.
